

Traditions is the IAA Friday Men's League Champions

The Traditions team proved to be the team to beat in the IAA Friday Men's league this year at Plaza lanes. Traditions clinched the title with three weeks remaining in the season, which is the earliest date in recent memory. The league featured several notable events during the season. Kevin Mikalowski rolled a 300, while Wayne Rhoades shanked his attempt and only knocked down 5 on his final ball for a 295. A first for the league was the introduction of women in the league. With participation falling, the league voted to accept women if they had the required USBC membership card. Becky Betts, daughter of Keith "the king" and Eula Betts, and fiancée of Kevin Mikalowski, proved to be a super competitor carrying a 218 average into the final weeks.

Traditions were lead by brothers Steve and Kevin Ochman who carried 209 and 198 averages respectively.
